Ellen,

Please see e-mail below from Mr. Evens, the DCD transportation engineer. He does not find that the proposed change to the Port Authority table will require additional transportation analysis. Please note that future comprehensive updates to the Port Authority tables or Airport Layout Plans may require an analysis of transportation impacts.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Brandon,

I've considered your question relating to whether we should require some sort of traffic analysis from the Port Authority for their proposed Lee Plan amendment with respect to adding an additional 25K square-foot hangar to their site. In consultation with Lee County Department of Transportation staff, I don't believe that a traffic study is necessary at this time due to the fact the vehicular traffic generated from the additional hangar, when distributed throughout the entire road network, will likely not be significant. Hopefully this answers your question. If you have further questions regarding this, please let me know. Thanks, Brandon!
